

Declaration of good faith in the administration of the Royal Thai Police and measures for its implementation to prevent corruption of BangPhlat Police Station fiscal year 2023

Background

Corruption and misconduct have been a major problem in Thai society for a long time. One cause and factor are principle for corruption in the bureaucratic system is obvious. Patronage system and interpersonal patronage behavior causes giving or receiving assets or any other benefits in return to help support each other's benefits between two parties. This affects the use of discretion or decision-making in the performance of the position that person is responsible for and may affect the public interest, whether intentionally or unintentionally, these actions are considered ethical offenses by government officials that may lead to complacency or acceptance of benefits in doing so. Which might lead our officers to commit corruption in the public sector, although the government has set measures and policies to tackle corruption problems and misconduct all along. But such problems is still more severe and complex, therefore, there is a need for us together to find a way or measures that will contribute to the prevention of corruption. Mr. Niwatchai Kasemmongkol, Secretary General of the NACC, as a spokesperson for the NACC, announced on Tuesday, January 25, 2022 at 5:00 a.m. local time in Germany or at about 12:00 noon time in Thailand. Transparency International (TI) has announced corruption perceptions index (CPI) scores for the year 2021 from 180 countries around the world which Denmark, Finland and New Zealand are ranked number 1 in the world with a maximum score of 88 points, while Thailand got 35 points, ranked 110 in the world and ranked 5th among ASEAN countries (10 countries), where Singapore received the highest score, namely 85 points ranked 4th in the world

According to the ministry on December 4, 2020, has approved with the plan. That plan being reform the country prevention and suppression of corruption and misconduct (Revised Edition), which aims to have Thailand's overall Corruption Perception Index (CPI) score in the top 20 of the world in 2036 by setting measures to control, supervise and monitor the management of the unit. Public and private sectors and requires disclosure of information from government agencies so that the public can access, recognize and be able to inspect by elevating the enforcement of disciplinary measures, administrative measures and improvements efficiency of law enforcement in strict judicial process by allowing every government agency to declare itself to be an agency that government officials must perform for them. "All government officials must not accept gifts from the performance of their duties".

Definition of terminology

Government officials means civil servers or local employees who have a permanent position or salary. Workers in government or state agencies, local executive deputy, local administrator, assistant to local administrators and members of local councils of local government organizations competent official under the law on governance Localities or other officials as provided by law and include directors, sub-committees, employees of government agencies, state agencies or state enterprises, and individuals or groups of natural persons. Which is required by law to use power or delegation to exercise the administrative power established in the bureaucratic system.

State agency means a local government organization, provincial government, central government, parliamentary agency, court agency, constitutional independent agency, agencies of the public prosecutor, public organizations, state enterprises, other government agencies and other agencies as prescribed in the ministerial regulations.

Corruption in duty means performing or neglecting to perform any act in a position or duty or practice or omit any action in any manner that may cause others to believe that he or she has a position or duty even though he did not have that position or duty or exercise power in a position or duty to seek undue benefits for themselves or others or acts that are an offense against official positions or offenses against positions in Justice according to the Criminal Code or other laws.

Performance of duty means an action or performance of duty by a government official in a position be appointed or assigned to perform any duty. Or both in general and in particular, as a government official whose powers and duties are specified by law.

Announcing oneself means declaring the intention of the top management of the organization to allow a person or the agency or society or the public to know that they and all government officials in the agency will not accept gifts and gifts of all kinds while before and after performing duties that will result in corruption and misconduct both in present and future. And such announcements have been published to the public in various forms according to the context of each agency.

Gifts that affect the performance of duties means money, properties, services or any other benefits that have value. and include a tip which state officials receive in addition to salaries, income, and benefits from government service in the case of normal and affect decision making, approval, permission or any other acts in the manner that dishonestly benefiting the gift giver either in the past or in the receiving group or in the future.

Bribe means property, gift or any other benefit given to a person in order to induce someone to whether acting or not acting in any position. Whether it is liked or disliked with duty, oral language is called kickback or poppy money, such as money, items, price reductions, receiving entertainment, receiving services, etc.

The word "bribe" from the Office of the Royal Society Give an explanation as follows.

The word bribe means property or other benefits given to a person in order to cause that person to act or neglect. Except not acting as the payer of bribes wants, the word bribe consists of the word bribe and the word on, sin is a Thai value that means property, on is the Khmer word that on (read as fed) means asking for sacred things. By promising that if help is accomplished, it will give something in return, bribe means money given, but as a bribe to help in corruption, bribery is not right. In order to approve various projects, the state has to pay many times more than it should actually pay. Classified as a direct corruption.

There is another type of payment known as bribes. It is money paid to the leader to catch those who have broken the law. In Thai, it's called a bribe to catch, for example, a person who gives clues to the police to arrest the culprit or the accused of committing an offense will receive an attractive bribe.

Conflict of interest means the authorized officer must exercise discretion, consider or perform any action for the common interest or the public interest, but he or she has personal interests hidden in that matter; or bring personal benefits or relationships into it. Influence on government decision-making or use their authority to seek benefits for themselves or others. As a result, officials are unable to exercise discretion or perform their duties impartially.
